NEW CLAM LAW.

Proposed for the Relief of the Local Conditions.

Bill Will Be Presented to Incoming Legislature.

One of the matters that will come up again before the next legislature is the change in the law to allow the digging of clams on the Sabbath day. Already Representative Clarence J. Fogg and County Commissioner Moody Kimball of Newburyport are preparing a bill to introduce as soon after the session opens as will allow of this being done.

The falling down of a similar measure last year was a great disappointment and surprise to Mr. Fogg and those who were associated with him in the matter. It was supposed that everything had been fixed as a provision allowing this was incorporated in every version of the voluminous Sunday law bill under consideration. When, however, the house, evidently tired of the whole discussion quietly voted to refer the whole subject to the next general court the Newburyport man was caught napping in a quarter from which he had not looked for an attack. This year he proposes to go it alone and not make any conflicting alliances.

This committee started out with the idea that it would report in favor of delegating to the local authorities in the different cities and towns the authority of saying what was necessary to be done on Sunday. This did not suit Mr. Fogg however and he kept after the committee until they agreed to incorporate his provision in the bill.

This is a matter in which Gloucester, Essex and Ipswich clam diggers are very much interested.

It is suspected that Mr. Fogg would like to have the matter referred to the committee on fisheries and game rather than to the committee on legal affairs. This is impossible, however, as it is clearly a case of legality rather than the propagation of fish.

MONSTER LOBSTER.

Sch. Mattie Brundage Brings In One Weighing 15 1-2 Pounds.

On the sch. Mattie Brundage at T wharf, Boston, yesterday, there was shown a lobster of monstrous size and weight, which was caught by one of the older men of the crew while the vessel was fishing off Cape Porpoise. The lobster is an aged one, but active, and was able yesterday morning to defend itself with its claws although it had been out of the water for several days. It was weighed before several of the dealers in one of the stores, and pulled down the scales to 15 1-2 pounds good weight. It is about 3 1-2 feet in length from the tip of the claws to the tip of the tail, and the large claws measured about 15 inches in length and five inches across. The man who caught it sold it to an Atlantic avenue store for $1.50.

FARES WERE GROUNDLESS.

Sch. Margaret Dillon Shows Up with a Big Fare.

The fact that sch. Margaret Dillon of the market fleet was off here during the gale of last Saturday night and up to yesterday morning had not been reported as making port caused some uneasiness for her safety in some quarters.

The most of the skippers and well posted ones, however, figured it out that Capt. Tobin had "given it to 'er" for down east after one of those big trips that some of the boats had been striking down that way and that he would show up the last of the week all right.

The wisdom of their belief was shown yesterday afternoon when the Dillon shot up to T wharf, Boston, with a big fare, 25,000 pounds, from the Maine coast grounds.

STILL NO FROST.

Situation at Bay of Islands Is Now Really Serious.

Owners and Skippers Are Beginning To Get Anxious.

Up to last night there was no frost at Bay of Islands, N. F., telegrams from there yesterday reading, "Weather still mild. No signs of frost."

The continued absence of frost at this favorite herring loading place is beginning to have its effect on the skippers of the fleet there, as well as the owners at home here.

Every day now without frost means much to those interested in the frozen herring fishery for the time is growing shorter that the vessels can stay there.

Then herring have not been as plentiful as former years, no large body striking in the Arms and staying there. There is now cause for worry that even when the frost does strike, the herring may not be very plenty.

Of course one day is sufficient to change the whole situation there. Frost may strike in quickly and when it does there will be a big hustle by the fleet to secure fish and get them on the scaffolds.

Always a lottery, the frozen herring business this season bids fair to be as big if not a bigger gamble as ever. News of frost striking in is certainly most anxiously awaited.

NO TROUBLE OVER FISHERIES.

St. Johns, Dec. 21.—Inspector O'Reilly of the cruiser Fiona, engaged in patrolling the Bay of Islands herring fishery, reports that operations are proceeding favorably and that amicable relations exist between the American and colonial fishermen. Including the New England vessels, there are 60 schooners at Bay of Islands.
